

MALALA: A BRAVE GIRL FROM PAKISTAN / IQBAL: A BRAVE BOY FROM PAKISTAN

JEANETTE WINTER

Two incredible kids who changed the lives of people all over their country. Iqbal was a brave boy who helped bring an end to child labor in Pakistan. Malala is a brave girl who stood up to the Taliban, a terrorist group, even after they shot her. She is the youngest person to ever win the Nobel Peace Prize.

Questions:

IQBAL:

1. Should people make children work? Is twelve dollars a lot of money? Is that enough to take away a young boy's childhood?
2. How do you think Iqbal felt when they took away his kite? When they chained him to his work station?
3. Does Iqbal deserve to be a slave? Does he have a good life? How would it make you feel if you never saw the sun?
4. Do you think it was easy for Iqbal to hold on to hope without sunshine or his kite?
5. How do you think he felt when he learned that he was free? Why did he run into the factory to tell the others? Do you think the people who owned the factory liked that he helped free the other kids?
6. How do you think Iqbal felt when he went to school every day? How do you think he felt when the factory owners threatened to hurt him? How was he brave?
7. Iqbal used his voice to bring freedom to many children in his country. Did he do that for himself or because he had empathy for those children?
8. How would you feel if someone who was as strong and brave as Iqbal died? How would you feel if someone who did a lot of good in the world passed away? How do you think people felt when Iqbal died? Do you think that the 800 people at his funeral were the only people in his country that mourned him? The only people in the world?
