

THANKFULNESS CARDS

Lesson of the Day:

We have to make sure that the people in our lives know we are thankful for them. How can we let people know what we are thinking? We can tell them or we can show them. Sometimes we can do both at once by making them something special as a gift!

Materials:

- Half sheets of white paper
- Paint in various colors
- Markers

Instructions:

1. Discuss the lesson of the day with your students. Talk about what it means to them.
2. Help students fold half-sheets of paper in half to make small cards.
3. The kids can then use their fingerprints to make small turkeys (thumb in the middle, thinner fingers as colorful feathers).
4. When they're dry, help students write, copy, or trace the words "I am thankful for" and then the name of the person who they are thankful for. Draw feet, eyes, and a beak with markers.
5. Let them make as many as they want!
